

Company:

Capricor Therapeutics, Inc. (NASDAQ: CAPR) is a Los Angeles, California based cutting-edge biotech company focused on the discovery and development of novel cell and exosome-based therapeutics for the treatment and prevention of a variety of diseases and disorders. Capricor's lead product candidate, allogeneic Cardiosphere-Derived Cells (CDCs), known as CAP-1002, is being investigated as a treatment for Duchenne muscular dystrophy and COVID-19. In addition, the Company is conducting research and development on its exosomes platform technology for a variety of indications. In response to a global pandemic, our team is currently applying its technologies to deploy a novel vaccination approach against COVID-19. Capricor offers exciting opportunities and invites qualified professionals to join our expanding team. Capricor provides competitive compensation and benefits packages.

Position: Small Animal Surgeon

This position is immediately available

Description:

- Performing small animal surgery and pre and post-operative care
- Developing relevant in vivo models of disease
- Executing functional assessments of animals (e.g. imaging, echocardiography)
- Performing euthanasia, necropsy, blood and tissue collection
- Authoring IACUC protocols and managing their approval and modifications
- Maintaining organized records of experiments

Experience and Qualifications:

Qualifications include three or more years of relevant experience. Working knowledge of biologics including vaccine development, drug toxicology and drug biodistribution strongly preferred.

Applicants should submit a cover letter and their CV to careers@capricor.com.